Family's fear for Amber as respite care is axed

JO DEEKS

jo.deeks@cambridge-news.co.uk

A FAMILY who live every day locked into their home to protect their severely autistic teenager fear for her future after a respite care package was suddenly axed.

Amber Wagstaff, 14, is severely autistic with very challenging behaviour, including self harming, and her mum Sally Thompson keeps the front door of their house locked to prevent her running off – which she has done in the past.

All sharp objects have to be kept locked away and large pieces of furniture are strapped down.

Amber lives in Bumpstead Road, Haverhill, with mum Sally, step-dad Paul and sister Saffron, 4.

Since September 2011, Amber has received respite care at the Wolves View unit in Hadleigh, spending seven days there and then seven at home.

Sally said her care package was reviewed just after Christmas, but was stunned to receive a letter last week to say it would be ceasing – on April 30.

MP Matthew Hancock helped the family to secure the care package for Amber and they have now asked him to try to get the decision reversed or at least delayed until a suitable alternative can be found.

Sally, 41, said: “She has improved a lot since she has been going to the unit; she is a lot calmer, but all of CARE AXED: Severely autistic Amber Wagstaff, with mother Sally Thompson, step-dad Paul and sister Saffron, 4. They are very concerned for her future now that her respite care package has been axed.

that will be wasted if it suddenly stops and she is here 24/7.

“She self-harms by biting herself and you never know when she will just lose it and start lashing out.

“She has pulled over furniture before and smashed sinks and windows.

“They say she needs to become more independent, but she cannot even go to the toilet on her own, so I don't see how that is going to happen. She can speak, but does not really communicate with the outside world at all.

“For people as severely disabled as Amber, routine is vital, so how do they expect her to cope with this change so suddenly?

“She has been having overnight respite since she was 7; it gives her a chance to get a break from us and us

“She is also going through puberty at the moment, which is very difficult because she does not understand what is happening at all.

“We want her to be able to stay living at home, but any change to her respite needs to be introduced very gradually, not with just two weeks notice.

“I have been told that I should just stay at home and look after the children, but we both work, and support ourselves.”

MP Matthew Hancock said: “I have contacted Suffolk County Council to discuss this matter and will continue to work with Mrs Thompson, and her family, to help ensure Amber's needs are met.”

A spokesman for the NHS said: “The NHS and Suffolk County Council jointly assess each child and young person's individual needs.

“Annual assessments and multi disciplinary meetings review and establish a package of care appropriate to individual needs.

“It was during this process that there were insufficient health needs identified and therefore deemed the placement to be inappropriate.

“It is crucial that the right placement is provided to ensure that this young person can reach their full development potential and have contact with appropriate peers.

“We would be happy to discuss any concerns the family has.”

CYCLE: Staff from Castle Manor Academy got on their bikes for a 38-mile ride, in preparation for a longer charity ride next month

School staff prepare for big charity ride

A GROUP of school staff got on their bikes for a 38-mile cycle at the weekend – in preparation for a longer ride next month.

The staff from Castle Manor Academy in Haverhill headed to Newmarket on Sunday to take part in a 38-mile Wiggle Spring Saddle, which was attended by nearly 1,500 riders.

For the Haverhill group, it was treated as a training ride for a longer, 60 mile, charity event they are entering in May.

The five members of staff who took part were Duncan Ainge, Jason André, Andy Barratt, Lisa Freds and Dave Ramsey, along with some supportive family members – Chloe Freds, Karl Player and Jeff Samuels. The event was the first such event they had entered and provided an excellent training ground for the distance to come.

The group are not all super fit PE teachers and include staff from all over the Partnership.

Marketing and Communications

jo.deeks@cambridge-news.co.uk

Manager, Jason André, said: "I've been a keen cyclist since I was a teenager, but haven't done anything structured like this since then."

"Sunday's ride was a brilliant experience, it brought us all together and provided some real encouragement for the longer charity ride. I think we've all caught the bug and I'm sure you'll see us entering more of these."

The staff will be joining with others from Castle Manor Academy to enter the Moonride, London to Cambridge, on May 10. The event starts in London at 10pm and makes its way via a snaking 60 mile route to finish in Cambridge. All of the riders are raising money for Cancer Research and support charities as it is a cause close to their hearts.

Their regular training rides have been successful and they've been receiving technical support from AeroCycles in Haverhill. They've also enlisted the support of local sport therapist Katie Ditchman, herself an ex-Castle Manor student, who will be on hand to help with recovery after the big ride.

Team Leader for PE, Andy Barratt, first suggested the ride and has been leading efforts to get the group in shape and prepared. He said: "So far the challenge has been a fantastic opportunity to make new friends and really start extending our training preparation."

"We could not have done this without the kind support and words of encouragement from the local businesses we have been working with. For the staff and students, the added awareness of why we are doing the ride and then being able to donate to such good causes, just makes the early and very cold training rides that bit easier."

To sponsor the group or any of the riders individually, contact Jason André on partnership.org.uk or ring 07899 806 693.

Primary pupils off to Suffolk showground farming day

PUPILS from two primary schools will join thousands of children aged 7-9 who will descend on a farming show on Thursday, April 25.

The pupils from Clements Primary School in Haverhill and Hundon Primary School will visit Trinity Park, Ipswich, for a day of food and farming-related activities for the annual School Farm and Country Fair organised by the education team at the Suffolk Agricultural Association.

The event provides 4,000 pupils from 95 schools throughout Suffolk with a free day out and opportunities to discover where their food comes from, see animals and machinery at work and gain some experience and knowledge of the countryside.

It is the 13th year of the event.

Haverhill snack firm sponsors Beaver Scouts

THE Intersnack, which has a site in Haverhill, has just signed a partnership agreement with the Scouting Association.

The company, which took over the former Percy Dalton peanut company based in Haverhill, has linked its Pom-Bear teddy shaped snack brand to Scouts in a year-long partnership. The brand will feature on the Beaver Scout Adventure Activity badge, which will be showcased nationally to Beaver Scouts, their Scouting Leaders and parents. Simon Carter, The Scout Association spokesperson said: "We value the support Pom-Bear offers the Movement. They are a fun brand and there is nothing more fun than being a Beaver Scout."

Proud day as mum shows off her baby

A CRITICALLY endangered white-collared lemur born at Linton Zoo is stealing the hearts of visitors.

The special baby born last month to mum Harriet and dad Jeepster is now almost five weeks old – and a boy.

The white-collared lemur is one of the rarest primates in the world. Its rainforest habitat has shrunk to less than 700 km sq worldwide, and it is also trapped by hunters.

Kim Simmons, zoo director, said: "With only 14 of this critically endangered species in Europe, every single birth is incredibly important to help safeguard the future of this very special lemur."

"Critically endangered is a classification given to a species whose next step in the wild is extinction. Linton Zoo runs a breeding programme for this species and with 10 of the 14 lemurs living here, this is the only place in the UK where you can see them."

Lemurs are native to Madagascar, off the south east African coast, and are not technically monkeys – they are prosimians, or pre-primates.

Linton Zoo has now bred enough white-collared lemurs to set up more potential breeding pairs at other zoos.

But Kim's immediate priority is to find a suitable name for the zoo's new arrival.

She said: "By his colouring we know the baby is a boy so now help is needed to find him a Malagasy name."

"It would be great if the name could reflect the significance of his very special birth."

Suggestions for names can be posted on Linton Zoo's Facebook page.

£35m package to provide new affordable homes

A HOUSING group is celebrating securing a £35 million package to invest in providing new affordable homes for people in housing need.

Suffolk Housing's package is made up of a £20 million privately placed 33-year loan from Canada Life Investments and a £15 million revolving credit facility provided by Lloyds Bank Commercial Banking.

Both deals were brokered by Lloyds Bank.

The money will be used to expand Suffolk Housing's stock, which currently totals just over 2,000 homes, to help meet a growing demand for affordable properties across Suffolk, Cambridgeshire, Essex and Norfolk.

Ian Winslet, Suffolk Housing's chief executive, said: "We are delighted that we have been able to negotiate this excellent finance package with Lloyds and Canada Life Investments. Since we were formed, we've played a valuable role in providing sustainable, high quality housing to a diverse range of people in our local community. Sustainable finance has been central to our strategy, which includes a commitment to build at least 60 new homes every year. This funding package represents the next milestone in our development, enabling us to develop almost 750 homes over the next four years and make a significant, positive social impact in our region."

New group hosts health needs meeting

A NEW group which has taken over responsibility for health provision is hosting a meeting to ask residents about their concerns.

The NHS West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group took over from the former Primary Care Trust on April 1 and is holding the meeting on Friday, April 17 from 2-4.30pm at the Leisure Centre in Ehringshausen Way, Haverhill. Haverhill Town Council, which campaigned for better health provision for Haverhill after the closure of the popular Crown walk-in clinic, is urging as many people as possible to attend, or if they cannot to e-mail getinvolved@westsuffolkccg.nhs.uk or call (01284) 774794.

The group is asking residents to raise their concerns and help create "the bigger picture" of current and future health needs in Haverhill. This will form part of the wider Suffolk Assessment, setting out key health needs and priorities. A poster for the event says: "The NHS West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group is committed to making NHS health services the best they can be so that people live long and healthy lives."

FINALIST: The new St Felix church in Haverhill which has been chosen as a finalist in a design competition

Catholic church in line for award

A NEW Catholic church building which opened last year has been chosen as one of four finalists for a design award.

St Felix Roman Catholic Church in Queensway, Haverhill, has been selected as a finalist in the East Anglia Local Authority Building Control (LABC) Awards 2013, in the Community Buildings Category.

The winner will be presented with a trophy during an awards ceremony to be held next Friday, April 26, in Norwich.

St Felix Catholic church was completed in February 2012 at a cost of £980,000, following more than 10 years of tireless fund raising by parishioners representing a multicultural congregation now totalling nearly 300 and drawn from Europe, Asia, Africa, the Caribbean and America.

The purpose-built church can seat a congregation of more than 260, has a reconciliation room, a meeting room, landscaping and designated car parking.

Father Michael Teader, the Parish Priest appointed local GP Dr Paul Stephenson as chairman of the New Church Project Group, who developed a brief for a building with a 'wow' factor to act as a focal point for the community.

NPS Group were appointed architects, and worked with the church group, parishioners, St Felix school children and the residents surrounding the building on the Parkway Estate.

Father Michael said: "It is a fitting tribute to the hard work of everyone concerned with delivering our new church that it has been nominated in the Best Community Building category.

"We strive to be a good neighbour and consulted the local residents during design and construction and the Parkway Residents' Association is one of the local groups that use our new meeting room facilities.

"The nomination also acknowledges the professionalism of the architects and contractors.

"We thank our parishioners, donors, the Sisters of Mercy, trusts, local authorities, Havebury housing and countless others for their generosity in helping us to raise nearly £1m to help our dream become a reality."

The Diocese loaned the parish £150,000 to enable construction to begin and parishioners continue fund raising to repay the overdraft.

Stalker avoids a prison sentence

■ LIZZY BUCHAN

A MAN has avoided prison after harassing a woman in what the prosecution described as "one of the most serious cases" of her career.

Nigel Proctor, of Girton Road, Haverhill, was handed a six-week suspended prison sentence and an indefinite restraining order by West Suffolk Magistrates' Court last Wednesday.

The court heard how Proctor, 44, appeared at David Holland pharmacy, where Kelly Shurety worked, around 15 times between September 1 and December 1, 2012 where he either watched her from the car park or stood in the door way pretending to use his phone.

The victim also saw him sitting in his car near her home.

Mrs Shurety confronted Proctor after spotting him parked outside the pharmacy using a pair of binoculars to watch her.

When police searched his car he was found to be carrying a terrifying arsenal, including a rope, a hammer, masking tape, an 8in kitchen knife, bin bags and a pair of binoculars.

Collette Griffiths, prosecuting, said: "I have been prosecuting for 25 years and this is one of the most serious cases I have come across."

The court heard Proctor had a previous conviction for stalking a 13-year-old girl in Haverhill between March and September 2011.

Tom Harrison, mitigating, said Proctor never attempted to communicate with the victim apart from when she approached him.

Mr Harrison said: "In his 44 years he has never assaulted anyone, he has never harmed anyone, he has never laid a hand on anyone in an inappropriate or unlawful manner."

Proctor was ordered to pay £250 compensation and £250 towards prosecution costs.

This is not the right place for a church

AS a resident of Chapelwent Road I am very dissatisfied but not surprised that planning consent was given for the River of Life Church.

Firstly the plans submitted were not the plans seen on public view last May.

The new plan is not in keeping with the estate. I feel we have been misled by the members of this church, as there had been no mention of a seven-day week cafe opening from early morning until late evening.

Where do they think Chapelwent Road is?

As for the Highways authorities they have obviously never been to Howe Road into Chapelwent Road.

We have a constant problem with traffic and parking is a nightmare.

Also there is no public transport on a Sunday or Bank holidays for there congregation to use so were are they going to park?

Name supplied

How many other claims are wrong?

I WOULD like to let your readers know of my concerns regarding my recent experience with a housing benefit claim my disabled mother had.

There was a very obvious mistake made when calculating her entitlement because they deducted an amount twice for the supporting people that would not be covered.

Even though I wrote and appealed, they still wrote back stating their calculations were correct.

I eventually phoned and spoke to someone in the benefits office – they agreed the amounts were wrong and said they now owed my mother some back payments.

My concerns are what about other elderly people who may not have families to help them with claims or people who take it at face value that the housing benefits office do not make mistakes.

How many other people's benefits amounts have they wrongly calculated?

JEWELLERY: Police are trying to reunite this stolen jewellery with its owners

Do you recognise this jewellery?

A COLLECTION of distinctive pieces of jewellery have been recovered by police.

Suffolk police are releasing photographs of stolen jewellery in a bid to reunite the items with their rightful owners.

Officers investigating a series of burglaries in the Forest Heath district at the start of the year located a vehicle in West Row in January, that was believed to have been used by the criminals.

Items of jewellery were found inside the car, a number of which remain unidentified.

As these burglaries had taken place across county borders the owners could be from Suffolk, Norfolk or Cambridgeshire.

If you recognise any of these items, contact the Bury St Edmunds Priority Crime Team on 101.

Managers and wardens of sheltered accommodation should double check their residents' claims just in case.

Surely the benefits office have a duty to ensure they are correct in their calculations.

Maybe claims should be double checked to ensure mistakes are not made.

Visually impaired group:

A speaker from Shopmobility in Cambridge attended the VIP's monthly meeting on April 9. She explained how they provided escorts for people who are disabled, including those who are blind or have poor eyesight.

Anyone can visit the town and meet up with a helper who will then take them round the shops, or maybe to a museum or other place of interest. Wheelchairs available if required. The trips last around two hours and are free.

Jean Manion from the Linton VIP group will be getting a supply of leaflets about the service. Call her on: 893595.

Summer Fair:

The Infant's school will be holding a Summer Fair on May 17 from 5pm-7pm. There will be something for all the family including a BBQ, picnic tea boxes, bouncy castles, train rides and lots more.

Bell Ringing:

Linton's group of bell ringers will invite people to visit on Wednesdays at 7.30pm which is their practice evening. They would welcome new members to the team, of any age. Once they see what goes on they might be interested in trying a new skill.

Some very experienced ringers have recently joined the band, so the bells are now being rung more evenly.

Fair:

The 15th Asthma Fair will take place at Chilford Hall on May 14 from 10am-4pm. There will be about 50 stalls with talented craftspeople selling their wares. Three will be items for the home and garden and clothes etc.

Further information from Jo Fairay on 07811 339279.

Animal Fun:

An Exotic Animal Experience was held at the library on April 8. The daughter of animal expert Mick Price, Kayleigh and her partner Leigh, brought a selection of animals to show to the children.

The event tickets were all sold within 48 hours.

The small children had a great time watching and holding a selection of small animals including a python, corn snake, bearded dragon, lizard, hedgehog, cockroaches, chinchilla etc.

The event was organised by the Raptor Foundation from the St Ives area.

Silver Band's first home concert

A PRIZE winning band will give its first concert in its home town this year on Sunday, April 28.

Haverhill Silver will perform at the Arts Centre, starting at 7.30pm, in its first local concert of the year.

The programme is billed "A Broadway Spectacular", and features popular music from stage productions in Broadway and London's West End.

Tickets are £6.50, £5 concessions, available from the Box Office on 01440 714140.

The Band has already taken part in the Butlins Mineworkers Contest in Skegness and the regional qualifying contest for the National Brass Band Championships in Stevenage this year.

Although the band finished outside the prizes at both contests, judges were very complimentary about their performances.

The band were also involved in a hugely successful Cambridge cancer charity concert in February.

They are also rehearsing the programme it will be performing at the upcoming South of England Entertainment Contest, to defend the title it won last year.

MADE IT: Cyclist Aaron Castell completed his ride across Australia with time to spare, before celebrating his 26th birthday

Aaron completes his epic cycle ride

SUPER cyclist Aaron Castell has pedalled thousands of miles across Australia in just 29 days to raise charity cash.

Aaron, 26, set out from Perth on March 17, determined to complete the 2,532 mile journey to Sydney in less than the 31 days it is usually expected to take.

Despite numerous punctures, problems finding places to eat and some heavy downpours, he covered around 100 miles a day and arrived at lunchtime on Sunday, April 14.

He was able to celebrate his 26th birthday in style on Tuesday, April 15 and is due to fly home on Thursday, April 18.

Aaron, of Chapel Drive, Haverhill, was tackling the challenge for Water Aid and hopes to raise £5,000. He already has £1,700 in pledges.

During the ride, Aaron wrote on his

jo.deeks@cambridge-news.co.uk

blog: "Over 2,200 miles done, my body is very much falling apart. The list of places that hurt is endless."

As he got closer to Sydney, Aaron wrote: "It turned quite nasty. The road got very busy and there was no cycle area on a thin road, so had to cycle the road. Some drivers shouted at me to get out the road - just like being back in the UK - and one section didn't even allow cycling. Had to turn off onto a back road which was at least quieter and then ran on to a cycle lane which was a huge relief."

After completing it, he wrote: "Total distance: 2532 miles. Quite a bit more due to some towns being off the main routes and having to go around for the shops or motels/ caravan parks. Australia has been very good to me and AMAZING! Birthday Tuesday and then flying back on Thursday."

Aaron, who works at Booking.com in Milton, has previously competed in the London Triathlon and wanted to take the chance to do something bigger and better for charity.

He starting the first few days of the ride through the pure Australian Outback, where water and other resources are especially low. It made him even more aware of the important work of the charity he was riding for.

Before leaving he said: "It's something we take for granted every day but having the challenge of needing water and not having it is closely connected. What they do is brilliant."

"There's a piece of road that's 1,000 miles with nothing between it. That will be the hardest part. As long as I have planned it right everything should be OK."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Village primary school becomes an academy

STAFF and pupils at Kedington Primary School are celebrating its new status as an academy.

The school became Kedington Primary Academy on April 1, making it the fourth primary school in Suffolk to become an academy.

Darren Woodward, Head teacher said: "I believe that Academy status will bring about many exciting opportunities for our school. Our dedicated Governors, forward thinking staff and I are very keen to make the most of the opportunities available through academy freedoms to continue to provide the best possible education and experience for our children."

"Becoming an Academy is clearly a fundamental change to our organisation but our values and ethos will not change."

Tracey Roach, Chair of Governors said: "Having achieved an "Outstanding" OFSTED inspection in October 2011 we examined the benefits of converting to an academy through the summer of 2012 before applying in September 2012."

"Freedom to allocate the budget as we wish will, I believe, enable the Governors to continue to ensure the best possible education for the children of Kedington into the future."

"We will continue to work closely within the Samuel Ward pyramid."

Diamond jewellery appeal

GOLD and diamond jewellery was stolen in a daytime burglary from a house in Haverhill

Police are appealing for information after a house was broken into in Chalkstone Way, Haverhill, between 9.15am and 3.30pm on Friday, April 12.

It is believed that the offender got into the back garden by climbing over a fence and then forced a door open to enter the house.

A number of items of jewellery were stolen from the house including five pairs of gold earrings, two gold, sapphire and diamond rings and four gold neck chains. A silver Apple iPod Classic was also taken.

Anyone with information relating to this crime should contact DC James Cassidy at Bury St Edmunds CID on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Solar panels for stables

An application to put up 16 solar panels on the roof of a stable block has been received by planners.

The plan for the photo-voltaic panels has been received by St Edmundsbury Borough Council for Thrift Farm, Bradley Road, Cowlinge.

'UNJUSTIFIED': Driving instructor Jeff Oakley is defying a council car park ban

Car park ban unjustified, says driving instructor

A DRIVING instructor is defying a council ban to stop him using a car park
for his learners to practice parking.

Jeff Oakley started up
1st for Freedom 1st Driver Training three years ago and has already seen 73 of his pupils pass their driving tests.

Jeff, 47, saw the large Meadows car park next to the cinema in Haverhill
as an ideal spot for practising parking as it is often virtually empty in the daytime, when he is taking drivers out for lessons.

He was surprised to be politely informed by a traffic enforcement officer that the public car park was no longer to be used by driving schools to instruct students how to bay park.

He says he does not believe he is breaking any laws and will continue to use the car park until he feels the council has proved that the area is being misused.

Jeff, who lives at Great Bradley, said: "It is not just me, I believe there are others who use it. It is a public car park and I think they are being very pedantic saying I am

JO DEEKS

jo.deeks@cmbridge-news.co.uk

using it to run a business.

"No-where do they display their terms and conditions in the car park.

"We neither make a noise nuisance, nor drive, or allow our students to drive in a way that causes danger to any other car park users.

"To the contrary; our vehicles have twice the amount of controls a standard vehicle has, the observation and awareness is far superior, which is reflected in our insurances.

"I can understand a concerned member of the public voicing an opinion; however, it is unjustified and unwarranted.

"It is also not illegal to park in a bay and
drive away again,
there is no payment required
if you do not leave the vehicle for any duration."

Cameron
Findlay of St
Edmundsbury
Borough Council
said in an e-mail

that customers had complained about learners
practising in the car park.

He wrote: "Our car
parks offer parking facilities to the general public in exchange for a charge.

"The traffic regulation orders which govern the off-street car parks set out the terms and conditions of use quite clearly,
with specific clauses which explain that any driving activity within the car park must be solely for the intention of locating an available parking bay and then to leave the site after the parking session has ended.

"The regulations forbid
any commercial service or sale to take place within the car parks, except under specific license from the council.

"The use of the car park is reserved exclusively for parking and that parking incurs a charge. You will understand that complaints
and concerns
from legitimate paying customers must be acted upon."

More pupils get their chosen schools

MORE of Suffolk's four and five year olds have received offers for a place at their preferred primary school than last year.

This year, Suffolk County Council received 7,491 applications from parents outlining which school they would prefer for their children from September 2013. Of those, 92 per cent received offers for their first preference and 98 per cent an offer from one of their three preferences. Sue Cook, director for children and young people said: "It is extremely good news that so many pupils have received an offer from one of their preferred schools."

OFF TO GHANA: Sixth Formers Bethany Franks and Emily Roberts who are raising cash for a volunteering trip to Ghana in August

Students raise cash for trip to Ghana

TWO Sixth Form students are raising funds to spend a month in Ghana volunteering in a nursery and helping with a local construction project.

Castle Manor Academy students Bethany Franks and Emily Roberts, both 18 and from Haverhill, have already used their savings to pay for the flights. They now need to raise £1,000 towards the cost of accommodation and injections.

They have already received support from Haverbury Housing and Rev Canon Ian Finn at St Mary's church towards this goal, but would now like to galvanise the support of the community.

Bethany said: "We really wanted to use the time after our A-levels to do something constructive. We think this is an excellent opportunity to help those less fortunate than ourselves. We've been overwhelmed with the offers of support so far, but we still need more to meet our ambitious fund raising targets."

Emily said: "When we are there, their school season is over, but they still turn up, and this limits the amount of resources that they will have."

"We are hoping to take resources out with us such as work books, quiz's and fun work sheets. We are also hoping to work in nurseries, from washing hands to playing. Another project which interests us is the building projects, as we feel like we will provide a lasting impact."

You can help them by donating unwanted clothing or cheques made payable to Castle Manor Academy and clearly marked for the Original Volunteers project. The girls need to raise the funds by July 21 and will leave on August 7.

Man, 23, found guilty of raping young girls

A RAPIST has been found guilty of attacking two young girls in his home on two separate occasions – his youngest victim was 6 or 7 years old at the time of the assault.

David Carter, of St Mary's Walk, Steeple Bumpstead, was found guilty of four counts of rape and a further count of sexual assault and attempted rape, which involved two girls between January 2006 and January 2007.

A jury at Cambridge Crown Court took a total of 14 hours and eight minutes to return all verdicts.

During the trial they heard that on one occasion the 23-year-old raped a six or seven-year-old girl in the toilet of his home, where he pinned the girl to the floor and said he was going to have sex with her, then kill her or throw her out of the window.

Jurors also heard how one of the girls notified her school of the alleged offences in 2011 which led to the police finding the second complainant, then nine.

However Carter had strenuously denied the charges insisting that the girls were lying and said "I have done nothing wrong, nothing at all". His mum and sister also took to the stand during the trial in his defence.

The jury also returned a verdict of not guilty to raping a girl under 13 between January 30, 2005 and January 26, 2006.

Carter has been remanded in custody while a psychiatric report is carried out.

Home plan approved despite objections

PLANS for a two-storey house on a village lane have been approved after a site inspection, despite objections.

Members of St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development control committee held a site inspection at Kedington on Tuesday morning, before approving amended plans for the house on land adjacent to number 8 Dash End.

Kedington Parish Council objected to the plans on grounds that the new dwelling would not be in keeping with the street scene, would remove another green space in the village and the loss of trees would impact on neighbours, as they provided a natural barrier against noise and for privacy.

Parking congestion was also feared. Occupants of six homes in the area objected about the loss of trees, garden areas and green space, and said the development would create a cramped and contrived terrace which was out of character.

Consent was granted subject to access and landscape conditions.

GYM users can now be pampered from head to toe after a workout, with beauty and massage services available on the premises.

Real Bodies Gym in Hollands Road, Haverhill, now includes a variety of massages provided by Bernadette McNally, as well as nails and waxing offered in the Beauty Box by Stacey Hunt.

Bernadette has been practicing massage since the mid-1990s. Originally during her training as a beauty therapist, she showed a natural flare for massage. Encouraged by the feedback she was getting from clients, she then went on to train in Japanese and Chinese styles of massage therapy and now incorporates Hot Stones into the equation to give the ultimate relaxing and therapeutic experience.

In China, the use of heated stones to relieve tired muscles dates back more than 3,000 years. Even in Russia there is a tradition of using heated black stones in the bath.

therapy?

Stacey had worked at the gym as a fitness instructor since it opened in 2011, but went on maternity leave before her daughter Eliza was born last February. Before that Stacey's promising career as a professional dancer was cut short by injury, when she suffered a torn hamstring. Stacey decided to switch to her other interest of beauty therapy and trained to start her new business while off on maternity leave.

Since she opened up at the beginning of the month, she has been kept busy. Stacey said:

"It has gone really, really well, I am fully booked up a week in advance. It is something I have always wanted to do. I also do manicures and pedicures for children under 12 and I can do Princess parties and pamper parties."

Stacey is based at the gym on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, and also works on Wednesday evenings and all day on Saturday.

HANDS ON: Sports therapist Katie Ditchman who will help at the London Marathon, with local runner Chris Ward

Sport therapist Katie lends a healing hand

A SPORTS therapist in Haverhill has been chosen as part of the team working at the London Marathon on Sunday.

Katie Ditchman who runs Perform Sports Therapy, a sports injury and rehabilitation clinic, is helping runners prepare in the days leading up to the event.

Katie has been running her own clinic for just over a year and was invited by the organisers to be part of a team of sports therapists based at the Virgin London Marathon Exhibition at the ExCeL centre in London where runners register for the marathon.

At the centre runners can meet the experts to get the best possible advice and services to help prepare for their race.

Each day until Sunday, Katie will be providing pre-event sports massages as well as giving practical advice on race day preparation and injury prevention.

Chris Ward, who runs CW Courier Services of Haverhill, has been attending Katie's clinic as part of his preparation for this year's marathon.

He said: "I have been training for the past eight months for the marathon, picking up injuries on the way including ankle problems early on and more recent foot injuries. I knew these could not be overcome without the help of Katie. I have also previously had sports massages from Katie which have really helped recovery and prevention of injury."

Runaway lorry man admits drink driving

A RECOVERY vehicle driver whose lorry rolled down the road and smashed into a car parked outside a house has admitted drink driving.

Stuart McFall, 47, appeared at Bury St Edmunds magistrates court, where he admitted driving at Cambridge Way, Haverhill, on March 22 this year, having consumed excess alcohol.

The court was told that a breath test gave a reading of 67 micro grammes of alcohol to 100 millilitres of breath, almost twice the legal limit.

Lesla Small, prosecuting, said McFall's vehicle had rolled down the hill into another vehicle at Cambridge Way. Police were called to the scene and officers could smell alcohol on his breath.

He was given a roadside breath test, which was positive and then taken to the police station.

In interview he said that he had started work that afternoon and gone to recover

JO DEEKS

jo.deeks@cambridge-news.co.uk

a vehicle from Cambridge Way.

While he was securing the vehicle on to his trailer, the brake on the lorry failed and it rolled into another vehicle.

He admitted having drunk six cans of cider at around 6am, but had not thought it would still be in his system when he got up to go to work at noon.

McFall, from Bury Road, Thurlow, who had no previous convictions, had driven from his home into Haverhill.

He was disqualified from driving for 20 months, fined £100 and ordered to pay £85 costs and a £15 victim surcharge.

Claire Lockwood, for McFall, said he had worked until 3.30am that morning, then drank alcohol while watching the cricket. He went to bed, then got up at lunchtime to go back to work and was called to recover a vehicle in Haverhill.

She said: "The vehicle had been stationary for about five minutes, then after that it started to move.

It came as a huge surprise to him and to other people in the area. Fortunately no-one was hurt, but he has lost his good character and due to the nature of his employment, his job.

"He does have a background in sales and is searching for another job."

Chairman of the magistrate Gill Evans told McFall: "We have listened to what has been said on your behalf and we have taken into account your guilty plea. "However, you did have a big responsibility and alcohol stays in your system much longer than most people would believe.

"It is just not worth driving when you have had a drink."

McFall was given the opportunity to take a driver awareness course to reduce the period of his disqualification.

Talk on Research Park dig

A CHANCE to discover the findings from an archaeological dig on the site of a new research park is on offer at a public meeting.

A detailed archaeological investigation took place at the Haverhill Research Park, after initial work on the 30-acre site revealed possible Roman or Iron Age settlements.

Once completed it is hoped the park will provide up to 1,000 new jobs, with a funding bid made for an Innovation Centre, and consent already granted for business units, a pub/restaurant, a creche and 150 homes.

Michelle Collings, Senior Archaeologist at Headland Archaeology will give a talk on Wednesday, May 8, at 7.30pm at Days Inn, Haverhill, detailing the occupation on the site from the Late Iron Age through to the post-medieval period.

The findings show the area was used mainly for farming cattle, sheep and goats during the 2nd Century AD.

Finds include a small post-built Anglo Saxon Hall as well as a group of Saxon brooches and beads, plus evidence that several Roman ditches survived through the Saxon period and Middle Ages into the 1840s.

Nic Rumsey, director of Carisbrooke Developments said: "We are delighted by the discoveries made and sure that the Haverhill public will be interested to learn about their town's history."

Michelle said: "This was a welcome opportunity to reveal and investigate the remains of both prehistoric and Roman farming communities."

Nine homes raided in drugs crackdown

JO DEEKS

POLICE raided homes in Haverhill and Newmarket as part of a crackdown on drug dealing and burglaries.

Officers searched nine properties, including two in Haverhill, and armed officers assisted at one in Newmarket. A total of five arrests were made.

Following reports of drug dealing in Newmarket, a 24-year-old man from London was arrested on suspicion of possession of class A drugs with intent to supply.

No charges were made but he was wanted for offences by the Metropolitan police and he was detained on a warrant to be transferred to London.

A 54-year-old man from Haverhill was arrested on suspicion of possession of class B drugs for which he received a caution.

While conducting vehicle crime patrols in Haverhill, officers arrested a 17-year-old man from the town, who was wanted on a crown court warrant.

Officers also discovered a cannabis factory at a house in Bury St Edmunds, arresting two people there. The raids were part of Operation Drawbridge and they took place on Wednesday.

Chief Inspector Kim Warner said: "This is a really positive enforcement message to those involved in criminality that Suffolk Police will target and prosecute them wherever possible."

Monte Carlo or bust banger charity challenge issued

A CALL for all petrol heads to join in the 2013 Monte Carlo or Bust Banger Rally has been issued.

The event is now open for entries and organisers are hopeful of finding teams from Haverhill to burn rubber for over 1000 miles to Monte Carlo via France, Switzerland and Italy.

The rally challenges entrants to source a banger car for less than £250 and take part in a variety of Top Gear-style challenges along the way and compete for points and prizes.

Teams are encouraged to raise money for a local charity of their choice and can share their progress with supporters back home via live GPS tracking.

Inspired by the classic Paramount film, the 3-day crusade will see over 100 of the finest British bangers visit some of Europe's most exciting locations and experience spectacular roads with backdrops of sun, sea, sand and snow. There are prizes up for grabs including trophies for the best – and worst – dressed teams.

The rally takes place between July 12-14 and more information can be found on the event website at www.montecarloorbust.eu.

NEWS IN BRIEF

May Day duck race at Kedington

AN invasion of 600 plastic ducks will hit a stretch of river over the May Day Bank Holiday weekend.

The annual duck race in aid of Kedington Church Restoration Fund will take place on Monday, May 6. It will start from the bridge across the river in Mill Road at 1pm and there will be cash prizes for the first ducks to reach the finish.

Organiser John Pelling said tickets could be bought in advance from Kedington newsagents or the Nisa Store, or people could just turn up on the day and pay the charge of £1 a duck.

Mr Pelling said: "Some years we have no water and we stand and wait for four hours in the heat for them to arrive. Other times we get soaked and they travel really fast."

Choral Society rehearsal

NEW members are encouraged to join a choral society, even if they are beginners and cannot read music.

Haverhill Choral Society is keen to attract new members to its friendly and lively 60 strong choir of all ages, performing a varied repertoire to cater for all tastes. No audition is necessary and do not worry if you cannot read music.

Last year the group was joined by Sudbury Choral Society to perform Verdi's Requiem at Bury St Edmunds Cathedral in May, which was the highlight of its year, followed by joining other performers at Sturmer Hall for an evening of Remembrance in November and concluded the year with an appearance at Ickworth House to sing carols.

The Society is now rehearsing for a Spring Concert at the Old Independent Church on Saturday, April 27, which will include works by Benjamin Britten, Bernstein and Faure.

Anyone interested can go along and join the group or for more information go to www.haverhillchoralsociety.co.uk or contact Roma Holmes (01440) 761613.

Plan for MOT Centre

PLANS to build a new MOT Centre have been received by planners.

Mr Duncan Gauld has applied to St Edmundsbury Borough Council for consent to put up the building at Suffolk Trade Centre, Bury Road, Stradishall.

We'll always Race for Jemma

Laura Jenkins is looking forward to this summer's Race for Life in Cambridge. But when she first ran it, in memory of her beloved sister, it took immense courage to even complete the course. Jane Redman heard her story.

WHEN Laura Jenkins first took part in Cambridge Race for Life at the age of 24, she feared she was going to give birth on the 5km route.

Heavily pregnant, Laura was suffering from agonising pain due to severe misalignment of the pelvic joints, a condition that meant she had to wear a special brace to hold her pelvis together.

But, armed with a pre-packed hospital bag and her medical notes, Laura struggled her painful way around the course – the last person to cross the finishing line.

Laura was determined to finish that 2009 race for one reason. Her adored older sister, Jemma, had lost her battle with cancer months earlier at the age of 26, leaving behind two tiny children.

The day after Jemma's funeral, Laura had discovered she was pregnant. It seemed like a gift from her sister: something positive to focus on in the midst of her terrible grief.

Every year since Jemma's death, Laura and her mum Wendy have taken part in Cancer Research UK's Race for Life in Cambridge. It is their way of taking something positive from the tragedy of losing such a young and beautiful daughter and sister.

"Jemma was just the most vibrant, wonderful and joyful person to be with. I miss her every single day," says Laura, now aged 28.

"She would light up a room with her personality and was very strong and independent, with a bit of a naughty streak! I remember she would get into trouble sometimes at school, but I still looked up to her and felt proud she was my sister. She was everything a big sister should be."

It was August 2008 when Jemma, mother to two little girls, Amber and Scarlett – then aged 4 and 2 – first started feeling poorly. She lost a lot of weight and lacked energy but her symptoms were put down to a virus. The family only realised something was really wrong when Jemma asked to stay with her mum for a while because she felt so ill.

"It was so unlike her. She was a really independent, strong-minded person, who lived her own life and coped on her own. She wasn't the type to go running home to mum, so we knew something was wrong," says Laura, who lives in Royston.

Wendy persuaded Jemma to go back to the doctor with her symptoms. She was given blood tests and in early September was called into Addenbrooke's for more tests.

Laura describes how she went around Tesco "in a kind of dream" buying gifts for her sister, thinking all the while they wouldn't be necessary because she would be home soon.

"They had mentioned the word leukaemia, but I convinced myself it was the worst case scenario. I didn't want to think that something as bad as that could happen. I didn't know then that Jemma would only spend one more day of her life at home," says Laura.

"I went to see her in hospital and she had put fake tan on because she didn't want her friends to see her looking so pale. She told us she had Googled 'white blood cells' because the doctors kept talking about them – and all that came up was 'cancer'. But she treated it as if it was a big joke, something that couldn't possibly be true."

The next day everyone had to face the truth:

Jemma had a type of cancer called acute lymphoblastic leukaemia and needed immediate chemotherapy. The family was devastated.

Laura, a veterinary nurse, gave up her job instantly in order to help her sister. She moved into Jemma's house and looked after Amber and Scarlett while their mum was in hospital.

For four weeks Jemma had aggressive chemo.

A hairdresser, she was distressed when she started losing her hair, but friends from Toni & Guy in Cambridge helped organise a more modern wig than those offered in hospital.

"The chemotherapy really took its toll on Jemma. When the hospital decided she could come home for the day one Sunday at the end of September we were extremely anxious for her safety and sterilised the whole house. But we were also very excited and wanted to make her visit really special," says Laura.

Knowing Jemma had always wanted a wood laminate floor in her lounge, Laura and partner Chris worked right through the night to lay a new floor before she came home.

"Jemma had a lovely day at home. We watched Chitty Chitty Bang Bang with the girls, and had ham, egg and chips at her request for lunch. In the afternoon Jemma made me and mum go out shopping. We didn't want to leave her, but we realised she needed precious time alone with her girls.

"She was supposed to be back in hospital by 6pm, but she dragged her feet and dreamt up reasons to delay. She couldn't bear to say goodbye to Amber and Scarlett and go back to hospital."

It was the last time Jemma saw her children. On returning to hospital her health rapidly deteriorated. Doctors initially thought it was a reaction to her chemotherapy drugs, or possibly shock. By the time blood tests revealed signs of meningitis, Jemma's condition had nosedived. She developed swelling on the brain and was rushed into intensive care.

With tragic irony, in the days spent battling for life in intensive care Jemma's cancer was discovered to be in remission. The chemotherapy had worked, but her battered immune system was helpless against the meningitis.

"I got a phone call from Mum, who was at Jemma's bedside throughout, telling me to come quickly to be with Jemma," says Laura.

"I'd been unable to visit as often as I would have liked because I was looking after Amber and Scarlett, so it was a terrible shock. I hadn't seen how much she had deteriorated in just a few days and I was still telling myself she was going to be OK.

"When I got to hospital I couldn't believe my eyes. Jemma was so poorly – covered in tubes, and very thin. I will never get the sight out of my mind.

"There was absolutely nothing the doctors could do. They couldn't operate because her blood was so thin. We just had to watch while my beautiful sister lost her fight."

On October 14, 2008, the family had to make the heartbreaking decision to switch off Jemma's life support machine. "I held her hand in mine as she died, and our hands looked so similar. I felt as if a part of me had died too.

"I helped to wash her body and close her eyes. She looked beautiful and at peace, like an angel."

Laura says: "At Jemma's funeral we had Over the Rainbow sung by Israel Kamakawiwo'ole, because I thought it was so beautiful. As we left the crematorium a rainbow appeared in the sky. It felt like it was there especially for her.

"We can't bring Jemma back, but we can raise money for research to help other people. That's why Mum and I do Race for Life every year. My sister never saw my own children, Charlie (3) and Maxwell (1) but they will be in the double buggy doing it with us this year – for the Auntie Jemma they never met."

Every hour, more than three people are diagnosed with cancer in the East of England.

That's why mums, daughters, sisters and friends of every shape and size are needed to join together as a formidable army and take on cancer at Parker's Piece in Cambridge on July 21.

Cancer Research UK's Race for Life, organised in partnership with Tesco, is an inspiring women-only series of events which raises millions of pounds every year to help defeat cancer by funding life-saving research. Julie Braithwaite, Cancer Research UK's Cambridge event manager, said: "We really need ladies across the county to join Laura and enter Race for Life in Cambridge today. Together, we can hit cancer where it hurts!"

"Race for Life is non-competitive. It doesn't matter how fit or fast you are. Taking part is about joining together against a disease that affects all of us. You can walk the 5k route, run it, jog it or even dance your way round. Please take the first step by signing up today."

FOR MENTAL WELLBEING

VOLUNTEERS: Nicky Thompson, CEO of Community Action Suffolk

The future looks good, says new charity head

THE head of a new charity launched in Suffolk following a merger of 10 voluntary and community groups says it will transform the services they offer. Community Action Suffolk, which includes Haverhill Volunteer Centre and Haverhill Association of Voluntary Organisations (HAVO) provides a wide range of services from advice, training support and recruitment of volunteers, meeting facilities, website hosting and help to secure grants and funding. Its Chief Executive, Nicky Thompson, said: "I am delighted to be leading Community Action Suffolk, supported by a very knowledgeable and experienced team. The aspiration is to transform voluntary community support services and partnership working, encouraging greater access and consistency of service delivery." Millions seized as criminals are forced to pay up

GREYHOUNDS, horses and even boats are amongst items seized by police in the region under the Proceeds of Crime Act (POCA) since it was introduced a decade ago.

Suffolk and Norfolk Police have recovered almost £16m worth of assets funded by crime since April 2003.

The act allows for the confiscation of property gained from criminal actions and aims to combat money laundering.

Det Insp Sean Coyne, of the joint Financial Investigation Unit at Norfolk Police, said: "The Proceeds of Crime Act is a very powerful tool which gives us the opportunity to target and tackle criminals, and make them pay for their crimes."

The two police forces began to collaborate on this after coming together to form a Joint Economic Crime Unit, operating across both counties in an effort to prevent criminals in Norfolk and Suffolk from benefiting from their behaviour.

LIZZY BUCHAN

Some of the most startling items which have been recovered by officers include live animals such as horses and greyhounds, as well as cash, property, boats, jewellery and an array of electrical goods.

Det Insp Coyne said: "Over the last ten years Norfolk and Suffolk Police have used POCA to great effect and we want to highlight the work that is being done in both counties."

He added: "As we move forward we will continue to target those individuals who cause the most harm in our communities, by stripping them of the profit they have made from their involvement in crime and reinforcing the message that crime does not pay."

Police have used the powers to seize assets funded by crime across a broad spectrum of activity, from drug trafficking, money laundering, counterfeiting, sexual exploitation and human trafficking, as well as more common offences such as theft and robbery.

Earlier this month Luke Sheppard, 27, of Frampton Close, Newmarket, was ordered to hand over all his remaining assets after he stole £4,393 in cash and £1,200 worth of gold from The Guineas shopping centre.

Drivers warned of Suffolk speed campaign

MOTORISTS who risk lives by speeding are being targeted by Suffolk Police as part of a week-long enforcement campaign.

The campaign runs until Sunday, with increased checks and enforcement.

Motorists caught speeding will face a £60 fixed penalty notice and three points on their licence, or may have the option to complete a Speed Awareness course.

Some drivers could be taken to court where they may face larger fines and disqualification from driving.

Chief Inspector Chris Spinks said: "Speed limits are in place for a reason, to reduce casualties and keep our roads safe for everyone. Sadly many drivers see them as simply an inconvenience, but they are there to save lives."

Hospital shortlisted for a top award

WEST Suffolk Hospital has been shortlisted for a prestigious national award in recognition of the high quality of care it provides for its patients for the third year running.

The trust which runs the Bury St Edmunds Hospital, is one of five finalists in the quality of care category, which it has won in the previous two years, in the Top Hospital Awards 2013, run by independent healthcare intelligence company CHKS. This comes after West Suffolk recorded good performance against key criteria, including the length of time patients stay in the hospital, waiting times and rate of emergency readmissions. Mortality rates and whether the patient's care pathway proceeded as originally planned were also included in the assessment.

Stephen Graves, chief executive at West Suffolk Hospital, said: "To be shortlisted for such a prestigious national award for the third consecutive year is fantastic news for the trust. It is a testament to the hard work and dedication of our staff and shows our patients are receiving high quality, safe and effective care."

Ready, steady ... bake!

■ ALICE RYAN

IT'S time to pull on a pinny and start scouring your cookbooks: Cambridge is staging its own version of The Great British Bake Off – and you could be a contender.

Open to amateur cake makers, the Cambridge Bake Off will see contestants go head to head in four rounds, culminating in a live final at the Big Day Out in Cambridge in July.

Taking place in partnership with our sister daily paper, Cambridge News and the Cambridgeshire Journal magazine, the competition will challenge bakers to create a chocolate cake in the first round, a classic Victoria sponge in the second, a fruit and crème pastissiere confection in the third – and a show-stopping celebration cake in the final.

Organised by Eat Cambridge's Caroline Biggs and Cambridge Cookery School, and sponsored by TuckerGardner, the Bake Off promises to be the foodie event of the summer.

"So many people have a passion for baking, and we thought it was time they had chance to enter a competition along the lines of the TV show,"

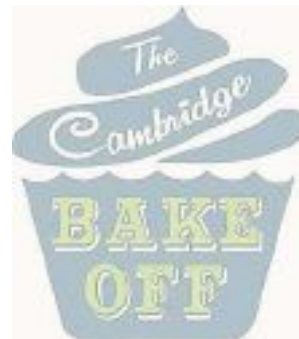

TIME TO BAKE: Do you have what it takes to create cakes like these?
Pictures by Debbie Wallwork

says Caroline.

"We're looking for people who can show the judges they can not only bake a great cake, but also that they are passionate about what they do."

If you're over 18, have a CB post code, have no formal catering qualifications (unless acquired more than 10 years ago), do not make your living from baking and can commit to all the judging dates (May 25, June 1, June 30 and July 6), you are eligible to enter.

Email your name, address and contact number – along with a photo of one of your best homemade cakes, and a couple of lines explaining why you love baking – to journal@cambridge-news.co.uk by May 10. Entries can also be posted to Cambridge Bake Off, c/o Cambridgeshire Journal, Winship Road, Milton, Cambridge, CB24 6PP.

Cars vandalised in Haverhill

A CAR was scratched down its entire length on one side, causing £1,000 of damage.

Police are appealing for witnesses after the silver VW Polo was vandalised between 6pm on Wednesday, April 10 and 9am on Thursday, at Elm Close, Haverhill. The car was parked in the street, when it was scratched along its offside door panels.

Anyone with information relating to this incident is asked to contact PC Rupert Beynon at Haverhill Police Station on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Survey to help homeless

PEOPLE renting housing in the private sector are being asked to complete a survey to help housing professionals working to tackle homelessness in West Suffolk.

Intelligence from the confidential, short on-line survey will be used to create tenancies for those in urgent housing need.

It is being run by the West Suffolk Lettings Partnership, that has created 30 tenancies in the private rented sector since it was established in November, for Forest Heath and St Edmundsbury Councils. Private landlord or letting agents should contact Landlord Liaison Officer, Darryl Durno on (01284) 757605 or email landlords@westsuffolk.gov.uk.

Pharmacy plan for bakery

A LISTED building application to convert a former bakery into a pharmacy has been received by St Edmundsbury Borough Council. The plan for the Hurst's Bakery shop in High Street, Clare, involves refurbishment and repairs, including rendering the exterior, replacing a brick wall and entrance gates and widening existing access to provide on-site parking.

Lenny's not laughing

- What's on 21
- Films 21
- Puzzles 22
- Gardening 22
- Weekend TV 24

COMEDIAN-turned-theatre star Lenny Henry is much more serious and much less happy-go-lucky than you'd expect from those crazy Red Nose Day suits he chuckles on, writes Ella Walker.

Gruff, eloquent and fiercely proud of his recent forays into the red-curtained world of creaking stage floors and bright lights, he's all about knuckling down to some real work. Who cares about those cheesy Premier Inn adverts when you're in a Pulitzer prize-winning play anyway?

The 54-year-old is starring in August Wilson's Tony Award-winning Fences, which is playing at the Cambridge Arts Theatre this week. Set in Pittsburgh in the late 1950s, it's an African American family drama of hefty importance, fringed by the fact the Ku Klux Klan are still on the prowl and bubbling with aggression.

Lenny plays Troy Maxim, a former baseball player turned bin man, who is slowly destroying his family. "He's a very bitter but man, who is slowly destroying his family. "He's a very funny charismatic man," says Lenny. "At the beginning he's very funny but as we peel the onion of his character we slowly find out that there's a lot boiling underneath, and a lot of it very unpleasant."

Whether you like Lenny's stand-up or not, it's hard to argue the guy doesn't have the clout to take on the role since his lauded appearance as Othello in 2009.

Does he ever succumb to panic? "All the time. In fact, if I didn't have a cork up my bum on the first night of Fences I don't think I would have survived!" he splutters.

There's a hint of the Lenny Henry I was expecting, choking and coughing with laughter. While he maintains he is still very much a comedian, touring with Fences is the priority, even if that means reliving his memories of driving endlessly round that means reliving his memories of driving endlessly round that means reliving his memories of driving endlessly round

Cambridge, searching for the stage door. "I think if anybody invades England," he says laughing. "I'm coming to Cambridge to hide because no-one will find me, they'll be stuck in the one-way system."

● Fences, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until Saturday at 7.45pm. Tickets £15-£35 from (01223) 503333 / cambridgeartstheatre.purchase-tickets-online.co.uk

CAMBRIDGE Corn Exchange has announced details of the 2013/14 Cambridge Classical Concert Series, which runs from October 2013 to May 2014.

In a momentous development, the prestigious Royal Philharmonic Orchestra has accepted the Corn Exchange's offer to become its Orchestra in Residence for the next three years, starting in autumn 2013. Not only will this highly-regarded orchestra perform half of the six concerts in the series, its education wing, RPO resound, will be helping to raise the aspirations of young musicians from across the county with an exciting range of educational projects, all focused on the experience of playing to live audiences within the Corn Exchange's unique acoustic setting.

Highlights of the Cambridge News-backed series include:

- A visit by the internationally renowned Tchaikovsky Symphony Orchestra of Moscow Radio
- A concert by the acclaimed Czech National Symphony Orchestra with the brilliant violin soloist Chloë Hanslip and featuring Schubert's Unfinished Symphony
- An evening of American classics (Gershwin, Copland and Bernstein) with one of the world's most sought-after solo pianists Freddy Kempf playing alongside the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra
- A return visit by the RPO offering a feast of major works by Beethoven
- A visit from the highly regarded Basel Symphony Orchestra who will play music by some of the twentieth century's most influential composers such as Philip Glass, Arvo Pärt and John Adams and featuring the immensely talented cellist Matt Haimowitz.

The 2013/14 series also sees world famous cellist Julian Lloyd Webber stepping down as Corn Exchange

VIOLIN: Chloë Hanslip is just one of the names lined up for this year's Classical Concert Series

Artist in Residence as his three-year residency comes to an end.

The venue will be making an exciting announcement about his successor later this year. In his swan song concert alongside the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in May 2014, Mr Lloyd Webber will be giving a consummate performance of Elgar's timeless and haunting Cello Concerto, a poignant and emotional note on which to end his highly successful Cambridge residency.

YOU can save up to £50 by taking out a subscription to all six concerts in the series. For details, call the Corn Exchange Box Office on 01223 357851 or call in person to the Box Office in Wheeler Street where you can also pick up an orchestral series brochure containing a booking form.

Full series subscriptions are on sale until Thursday, May 16. Four-concert subscriptions are on sale from Tuesday, May 21 and individual concerts go on sale from Tuesday, May 28.

film of the week

Love Is All You Need (15, 116 mins)
IN her recent films, Oscar-winning Danish director Susanne Bier has meditated on the ability of the human spirit to endure all-consuming grief.

Perhaps hankering for some light relief, she dons her sunglasses and SPF25 for this life-affirming comedy set at an idyllic villa on the breathtaking Sorrentine Peninsula.

Love Is All You Need is an appealingly frothy confection about two damaged souls offered a second chance at happiness when they least expect but most need it.

The literal translation of the film's Danish title Den Skaldede

Frisor is The Bald Hairdresser and this succinctly sums up heroine Ida (Trine Dyrholm), who has undergone chemotherapy as part of her breast cancer treatment.

Ida returns home from a check-up to find her oafish husband Leif (Kim Bodnia) in flagrante delicto with blonde accountant Tilde (Christiane Schaumburg-Muller).

It's a devastating blow and Ida leaves him to catch a flight to Sorrento, where their daughter Astrid (Molly Blixt Egelind) is due to marry her handsome fiancé Patrick (Sebastian Jessen).

In the airport car park, Ida absent-mindedly backs into a car being driven by English widower Philip (Pierce Brosnan), who has thrown himself into his work – fruit and vegetable wholesale – following the death of his wife. It transpires that Philip is Patrick's father and is also heading to the ceremony.

Her tenderness and honesty are a tonic, kindling a spark of attraction between the strangers, but personal relationships become strained when Ida's cheating husband arrives with Tilde in tow.

The wedding conceit and sun-baked locales of Bier's film conjure fond memories of Mamma Mia! but Love Is All You Need dodges the ABBA songbook while still peddling a winning formula of fizzing dialogue and longing glances.

Allotments: don't give up!

HIS commitment to show gardens for the RHS Chelsea Flower Show the past two years has meant that garden designer Cleve West's beloved allotment has suffered as weeds have sprung up and slugs and snails have built their own thriving community among his prized vegetables.

While city dwellers may have romantic notions about wandering down to their plot on a balmy summer's evening to admire their crops and pick ripening fruits to add to their organic dinner table, West is much more realistic, 13 years after he took on his west London plot (now expanded to 20 rods, four times the normal size).

"Many have bought into allotments since they became part of the horticultural zeitgeist that seemed to sweep in as the new millennium got under way.

"But what the books don't tell you is that a large proportion of new allotment tenants give up within a year, overwhelmed by the time needed to keep the plot in good shape," he observes as he charts his own allotment experiences in his book, Our Plot.

by Hannah Stephenson

"Allotments have been billed as something wonderfully romantic, which they can be. But writers often turn a blind eye to the fact that tending an allotment does take up a lot of time and people get disillusioned quite quickly when they do all the initial clearing and then within about three or four weeks it's all weedy again. They didn't see that as being part of the bargain."

So how much time will you need to spend on a plot? "Well, if you're growing food to save money, whatever you do, don't add up the time it takes to produce your own food and apply an hourly rate to it. It will only depress you," he warns.

"The National Society of Allotment and Leisure Gardeners estimates that, for a five-rod plot (250 sq m), a gardener will spend just over 200 hours a year tending it. That sounds about right. We each spend at least one full day a week at the plot and often more during the busy period of sowing and growing between March and July."

When West says a day, he doesn't mean office hours. He's talking at least 12 hours, but it's not impossible, he points out.

"Those who do persevere are often pleasantly surprised to find that allotments are not only about growing food, they are a way of life."

He advises newcomer plotholders to keep motivated by growing potatoes, squash or other vegetables with big leaves, which will be good ground cover and help prevent weeds taking over.

"Lower your expectations in the first year or two, just while you get the hang of it. You will get upset when things don't grow or things get eaten.

"I've never had a decent asparagus crop, but I'm not giving up."

GO, WEST: Cleve West encourages new allotment tenants to stick with it

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.
- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.
- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.
- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.
- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, home and mobile phone numbers and email address. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

Battery boost for Leaf

THE next generation of Nissan's all-electric Leaf has arrived – and for the first time, buyers can lease batteries for the 100 per cent electric car and choose one of three trim levels.

A new pricing structure has been introduced to reflect the three trim levels and the battery-leasing options now available – but things are far from complicated. Cars bought with leased batteries will be known as 'Flex' models and buyers will be able to get behind the wheel of an entry-level Visia Leaf on that basis for £15,990 (after receipt of the Government's £5,000 plug-in grant).

The separate battery lease payment ranges from just £70 per month depending on the length of the contract and mileage covered.

The highest price anyone will pay for a Leaf is £25,490 (again, after receipt of the grant). This will be for a top-of-the-range Tekna Leaf, with the battery bought outright.

THE NEW NISSAN LEAF: Improved range and now with prices starting at £15,990 after receipt of plug-in grant.

The new Leaf features more than 100 improvements over its predecessor – many made as a result of feedback from Nissan's active community of Leaf owners.

Most notably, the car's range has been extended from 109 miles to 124 miles. And its battery is capable of recharging in about half the time of the first-generation Leaf.

The longer range has been achieved by improving the Leaf's aerodynamics and its regenerative braking system and a more efficient E-powertrain. The real world range has also been improved with the introduction of a new heating system which is 70 per cent more efficient through the use of a heat pump in the system.

But that's far from the whole story. New interior trim, the addition of Nissan's Around View Monitor technology and new suspension settings specifically tailored for European roads build on the Leaf's unique driving experience.

The three trim levels available to UK buyers are Visia, Acenta and Tekna. All models have increased boot space because of the relocation of the charging point and an enhanced interior trim. There is a height adjust facility on both front seats and more foot space for passengers.

Jim Wright, managing director of Nissan GB, said: "We are very proud of the new Nissan Leaf, which underlines our commitment to the future of electric motoring."

Average cost of a used car is £7,000

THE latest figures from BCA on used car prices show that the headline average value declined by 0.7 per cent in March, although year-on-year values were up by more than 17 per cent.

For the fourth month running, average used car values remained at £7,000 or more.

Across the board, used cars averaged £7,000 last month, down by £56 compared to February but significantly ahead of March 2012 by £1,026 (17.1 per cent).

Fleet and lease values fell back slightly from the record levels achieved in February, while dealer part-exchange values climbed marginally.

However, post-Easter, buyer demand has weakened and conversion rates have fallen in the first week of April, suggesting there will be some pressure on values in the weeks ahead.

Simon Henstock, BCA's UK operations director, says:

"Although average values continue at near record levels, prices are high, largely as a result of the constricted supply rather than strong demand.

"When seasonal variations result in the available volumes rising, the effects are quite quickly seen in the remarketing arena."

Junior IT/Accounts Assistant

We are looking for a bright, able individual to provide support to our Accounts and IT Teams. This is an excellent opportunity for a hard-working, committed, intelligent person to join a successful and growing Cambridge law firm.

While previous experience is not essential, dedication to ensuring the job always gets done and done well is a must. Applications are invited only from those who pay close attention to detail, have top-class organisational skills and can demonstrate an ability to use their own initiative.

On offer for the right applicant is a competitive salary along with a number of benefits: flexible working hours, private health insurance, life assurance and pension scheme.

If you are a driven individual who obsesses about doing things properly and takes pride in your work, then send your CV and covering letter to our Practice Manager, Lynn Roberson at Barr Ellison Solicitors, 39 Parkside, Cambridge, CB1 1PN.

No agencies please.

CHARLES STANLEY

The personal investment service

Branch Support

Charles Stanley is one of the most respected UK firms in the field of private client stockbroking, investment management and financial planning, consistently winning industry praise for its high level of service.

An opportunity exists in our Cambridge Office for Branch Support. This is an opportunity to embark on a career within the support function of a very busy and highly successful office. The aim of the role is to offer high level administrative and secretarial support to the branch; this will include audio typing, and general support in all aspects of looking after clients.

Previous secretarial experience is essential, preferably within a professional services environment. Strong I.T. literacy is also crucial, particularly in Microsoft Excel and Word.

If you are interested please send your CV with covering letter/email by the 30th April to:
che.stoddart@charles-stanley.co.uk

Charles Stanley & Co. Limited is authorised and regulated by the Financial Services Authority.

AIRCRAFT ENGINEER

An opportunity has arisen for a talented and motivated aircraft engineer with a passion for historic aircraft and aviation to join The Fighter Collection.

The Fighter Collection based at The Imperial War Museum Duxford, is one of Europe's finest collections of historic aircraft with over fifteen airworthy aircraft in the fleet and many restoration projects in the planning stages.

The successful candidate will be responsible for undertaking maintenance, restoration and other various tasks associated with supporting this unique fleet of aircraft.

Some travel may be required to various locations both in the UK and Europe in support of the aircraft whilst attending flying display commitments

Applications should be made in the first instance including a covering letter and CV to:

Martin Espin, Chief Engineer
The Fighter Collection

Duxford Airfield, Cambridge CB22 4QR

BOARD MEMBERS VACANCY

£15.40ph

The future of the National Offender Management Service rests with people like you. People who are passionate about protecting the public, reducing re-offending – and helping ex-offenders back into meaningful roles within their communities.

Of course, in order to do this in an increasingly challenging and complex world, it takes more than just the right motivation. It takes real leadership and strategic insight; strong on people and financial management; with the ability to drive change and enhance performance. It also takes an open mind, a commitment to celebrating diversity and, above all, the integrity and business acumen needed to make profound, results-oriented decisions that can create our future and turn individual offenders around.

If these are skills you possess - and you can offer up to five days a month as a Trust Board Member - applying them here means the opportunity to play a major role in transforming the service and, as a result, making a significant difference to the lives of the people in your community. Appointment will be up until 31st March 2014, with the possibility of a further year's extension.

Closing date for receipt of applications is Friday 10th May 2013 at 4pm.

If you would like to discuss the role, please contact the Chair, Kevin Ellis, or CEO John Budd, by initially calling 03000 477000 to arrange a convenient time.

If you would like to request an application pack please email:
human.resources@cppt.probaton.gsi.gov.uk or telephone the recruitment hotline: 03000 477028 quoting reference Board (CPPT)

Shortlisted candidates will be invited to attend for interview on Monday 3rd June 2013.

The Ministry of Justice is an equal opportunities organisation and welcomes applications for statutory office holders regardless of ethnic origin, religious belief, age, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, disability or any other irrelevant factor.

Teaching Assistant with specialisms in supporting children with autism and language difficulties

Grade 3: range £15039 - £16054 full time - Pro rata - depending on experience

39 hours per week/40 weeks per year

Churchill Free Special School is a brand new provision for pupils aged 8-18 with speech, language and communication needs (SLCN) and/or Autistic Spectrum Disorders and Asperger's. We open in September 2013 with the first cohort of 18 pupils in Year 5, 6 and 7 with the number on roll increasing to 70 pupils by 2016. Based on the site of Samuel Ward Academy, the school will have a strong commitment to inclusion.

Required for September 2013

The governors are seeking to appoint 2 enthusiastic and skilled teaching assistants to join the school when it opens, to support teaching staff across Key Stage 2 and Key Stage 3.

For this position we are looking for:

Experience of working with SEN pupils with language difficulties and/or autism. You should be qualified as a minimum to NVQ level 2 for Teaching Assistants or equivalent, but preferably level 3 or 4. You need to have a good understanding of the role of the Teaching Assistant (TA) and other professionals working in the classroom and a working knowledge of relevant policies/codes of practice/legislation. Knowledge of PECS, TEACCH or MAKATON would be an advantage. We seek candidates who can relate well to children and adults and work flexibly as part of a team. Most importantly, because this is a new school, we seek enthusiastic, energetic TAs who actively seek opportunities to help make this an outstanding provision.

We can offer:

A brand new, well equipped school building, Pension Scheme, Homemade lunch facilities. Application packs are available from Mrs M Merch-Chammon, 01440 760333, or email mmerch-chammon@samuelward.co.uk or from our website www.samuelward.co.uk

We are committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and all successful candidates will be subject to an enhanced CRB and other relevant employment checks. We are a Smoke-Free site

Stellar line-up: Haverhill under-10s rugby team, who enjoyed victories over Ely and Cottenham.

CP

Haverhill come from behind to earn victory

HAVERHILL under-10s fought back from being 15-5 down at half time to beat Ely 25-20.

Craig Martin-Gowing scored Haverhill's only try in the opening periods as the visitors trailed by a single try at the break.

Touchdowns from Ben Warren and Oscar Harwood levelled the scores early in the second half, and Haverhill then claimed victory with further tries from Luke Wheeler and Oliver Loveridge.

Haverhill then romped to a 50-5 win over Cottenham with Loveridge, Warren and Martin-Gowing among the try scorers.

Haverhill under-12s travelled to Cottenham where they played a series of matches against the hosts and Ely.

In their first match against Ely, Haverhill lost 15-0, and despite a strong start in the second game against a mixed Ely and Cottenham side, they lost that 14-12.

Tries from Stanley Short and Brook Broomfield, and a Dean Cleary conversion, put Haverhill 12-0 up but second half tries from the hosts, both of which were converted, gave the Ely and Cottenham team victory. Shelford suffered a disappointing 126-0 loss to Wymondham.

Stalwart Roger is honoured by his club colleagues

ROGER Campbell has received the Kernutt Cup honour at Haverhill Golf Club.

He received the trophy, given in remembrance of former member Roy Kernutt, from Mrs Veronica Kernutt, her daughter Sonia and granddaughter Elie at the senior section presentations.

The seniors nominated Campbell (pictured) to receive the award in recognition of the valuable contribution he has made since joining the club in 1996. He served as captain in 2002 and is currently seniors' treasurer, as well as assisting with the junior section and other club events.

The following also received trophies at the presentation: Alistair Cocks for the Winter League, Charlie Tapp and Ann Thompson for the Bleasdale Cup, Gill Richardson for the Ladies Monday League and Roger Corbett for the Mott cup (Men's Monday league).

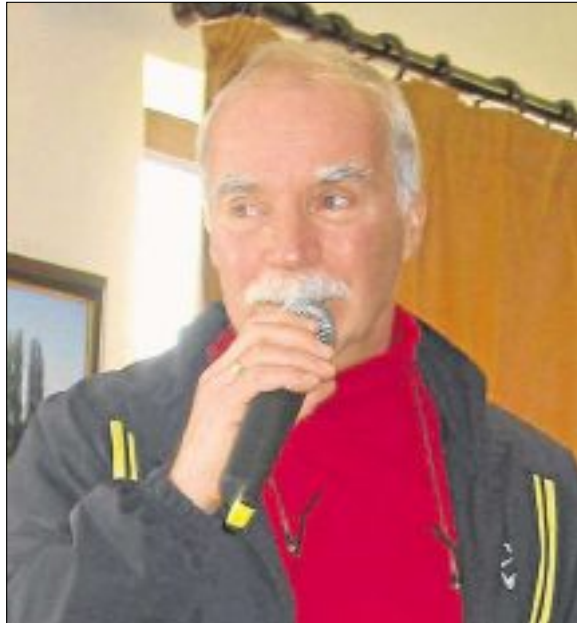

Before the presentation, the seniors played in a Texas scramble competition which was won by Geoff Dorkins, Colin Durston, Alan Whitfield and Dave Parsons.

Junior captain Michael Perrett won the A Steam competition.

His round of 75-5-68 saw him reduce his handicap by one shot to four and was enough to win the medal event for 0-21 handicappers ahead of Liam Merritt (77-6-71) and Daniel Bentley (84-9-75).

The stableford contest for handicaps 22 and above was won by Dan Walker, who scored 50 points, slashing his handicap by six shots. Louis Martin was second with 37 and Joshua Hulyer third with 33.

In the red tee competition for handicaps 29-36, the winner was James Iron with 47, reducing his handicap by four shots. Jason Carpenter reduced his handicap by two shots in finishing second on 43, with Matthew Carpenter third with 34.

Edward Halpin won the P Franklin Junior medal competition with an excellent round of 86-20-66, reducing his handicap by a shot to 19.

Second was Ollie Stevenson with 79-12-67, trimming his handicap by a shot to 11, with Perrett third with the lowest gross score of 74-4-70.

In the stableford, Hulyer came out on top with 38 points, ahead of Iron and junior girls' captain Nicole Pike. Billy Bush was the winner of the red tees stableford with 35, with Matthew Carpenter second on 27.

Haverhill retained the Bone of Contention Trophy with a commanding 10-hole victory in their friendly against visitors Abbottsley.

The Curry Cup campaign got off to a disappointing start with a 15-3 defeat at Felixstowe.

The next match is a home to Colchester on May 18.

But the mixed match away to Seckford resulted in a six-hole victory for the Haverhill team led by club captain Gordon Price and lady captain Sheila Price.

Six-shooter Espin guns down Cottenham

DAN Espin smashed a double hat-trick as Wickhambrook triumphed 12-2 against Cottenham United in Cambridge & District Colts League, Division 17A.

James Percy hammered a hat-trick and Sam Clayton, David Crowley, Tom Pinker and Harry Willett got one apiece.

Two stunning strikes from Luke Stearn saw Thurlow under-16s win 2-1 after extra-time against Priory Parkside White to book a place in the semi-finals of the Hillsborough Cup.

Ethan Hallam bagged a brace and Lloyd Blackburn and Bart Purser got one each as Aztecs White won 4-0 against West Wrattling in Cambs Mini League, Division 9D.

West Wrattling enjoyed a 6-0 victory over Dynamo Foxton in Cambs Mini League, Division 11D.

Jack Lisher scored twice and there were single goals for Finley Plant, James Iron, Charlie Hellen and Josh Lee.

Betts triumphs on his Rovers return

PETER Betts returned to the hotseat and masterminded Haverhill's 3-0 home victory over Woodbridge in the Thurloew Nunn League, Premier Division on Saturday.

The former manager was back in charge as boss Kieron Hammatt was getting married, and he was delighted to see the team end their four-game winless run in the league.

Goals from Jack Wilkinson and Neil Cogger put Rovers firmly in command, before a penalty from Dan Cornwell sealed the three points.

"I enjoyed it," said Betts. "It was a good performance and the lads responded really well."

"The crowd's been a bit disappointed with results recently, but they were fantastic. With a 3-0 win and a clean sheet you can't grumble. We set a high tempo, got the ball down and played some good stuff in the right areas.

"We were dominant, were well organised and were hard to break down. They had one or two half chances and that was about it.

"I know the players' strengths and they've not become bad players just because of a bad run of results. I know they're good players and I can't speak highly enough of them."

Rovers followed up the win with a 2-1 home defeat to leaders Dereham on Tuesday night.

Wilkinson headed the hosts into the lead from a Jack Higgs free kick, and the goalscorer fired wide after the visitors had levelled matters. Ed Wootten saved a penalty on the stroke of half time, but Dereham did score a second early in the second half.

Rovers travel to Walsham-le-Willows on Saturday.
